Decade of Remembrance, Recognition, and Reconciliation

In 1997, General Convention affirmed The New Jamestown Covenant, and agreed to designate 1997-2007 as a "Decade of Remembrance, Recognition, and Reconciliation" in which dioceses would fully recognize and welcome Native Peoples into congregational life.

On November 1, 1997, All Saints' Day, a new Jamestown Covenant, a Declaration of Faith, was signed by representative leaders of the Church and Native Ministry. This was one of the final acts of then Presiding Bishop Edmund Browning.

General Convention 2006 adopted a resolution to extend the Decade of Remembrance, Recognition, and Reconciliation as a Decade of Action from 2007-2017. The purpose of the Second Decade of Remembrance, Recognition and Reconciliation is to renew the commitment of the Church to fully recognize and welcome Native Peoples into congregational life, and enter into a special intentionality towards developing an outreach partnership among Indigenous People.

The Council of Indian Ministries and Office of Native American Ministries are charged with the duty to plan and help coordinate appropriate celebrations, events and materials for the Second Decade of Remembrance, Recognition and Reconciliation.

Creator, we give you thanks for all you are and all you bring to us for our visit within your creation. In Jesus, you place the Gospel at the Center of this Sacred Circle through which all of creation is related. You show us the way to live a generous and compassionate life. Give us your strength to live together with respect and commitment as we grow in your spirit, for you are God, now and forever. Amen.

*In the name of God,
the one who creates,
In the name of Christ,
the one who redeems,
In the name of the Holy Spirit,
the one who guides in truth
In the name of the Trinity,
the three in One.
Amen*
